ANNUAL REPORT OF THE POLICE DEPARTMENT 1994

Preamble :

During the year 1994, the Police Department had to contend with difficult situations in the areas of law and order and also Crime, but the Department successfully handled all the situations. In addition to these onerous tasks, the Department handled the enforcement duties as well as the duties of providing security to the V.I.Ps.

Apart from giving full attention to the conventional responsibilities, amidst the up-heavals the Department paid attention to the training of the Constabulary as well as inservice training of the staff. A great stride taken in this direction was the establishment of the Training institutions one in each district, to train the Constabulary. The Department has also taken a major step towards modernisation of the Force and it has established Regional Forensic Science Laboratories at three places already and further steps to establish further Regional Centres are being taken. Special attention has been paid to give a new perspective to the Investigating Officers and orientation towards using scientific methods. As part of Modernisation, mobility of the Department has been given a phillip and notable improvements have been effected in the field of communication. Computerisation has been a land mark of development.

The Department has also expanded by adding 15 Police Stations, this year too, as has been done in the past two years. Taking the over-all picture, it can be said that the Department has been responding to the complexities and needs of the new situations arising and gearing itself upto meet the challenges.

Law and Order

During the year 1994, the over-all and law and order situation in Karnataka was by and large peaceful except a few cases of communal clashes as well as caste-based conflicts.

During the month of August, a communal situation flared-up in Bhadravathi during the observance of Id-Milad festival, when, Police had to open fire to quell the violence.

Similarly, in the month of September, Koppal Town witnessed a communal confrontation. During the procession of Ganesha, some miscreants pelted stones on the procession which resulted in communal violence, but the police could bring the situation under control without resorting to firing.

During the month of October, Bangalore City was a spectrum of mob-violence when the telecast of Urdu news was resented by the Kannada Organisations. The procession taken out by these organisations and students was stoned which resulted in violence. The police had to open fire and 4 persons died as a result of this. But, 21 persons died due to stabbing and the police had a tough time controlling the incidents of looting and arson. The police had a testing time, but, however, they struggled hard and brought the situation under control.

Another difficult situation faced by the police was the communal situation that developed in Davanagere town during the Vijaya Dashami procession in the month of October. The procession was stoned by miscreants as a result of which trouble erupted. Police had to open fire to control the unruly mob.

Another major problem faced by the police during the year was the issue of hoisting the National Flag at the Idga-Maidan in Hubli. Since 1992, the police is confronted with the situation, every year on two occasions of National importance i.e. Republic Day on 26th January and the Independence Day on 15th August. The police made elaborate arrangements to maintain law and order. But, the situation became serious and turned violent and the police had to resort to firing.

This has been a persisting problem and because of its emotional dimensions, it has become a Gordian knot. Purposeful efforts at all levels are being made to solve this problem and bring peace to the area.

Caste Conflicts

The year under review witnessed clashes between Harijans and Caste-Hindus in some rural areas. These incidents were reported more during the post-Grama Panchayat elections. During the first part of the year, 2 serious incidents of clashes were reported from Gulbarga District while during the month of July, a serious incident was reported from Kanakapura.

Labour and Services

Over-all situation on the labour front in Industries in the State is peaceful barring a few incidents of labour unrest in a few industries. During the current year, no major labour incident has been reported.

Political

Various political parties agitated against the acceptance of Dunkel proposal by the Central Government.

The activities of various political parties in the State had a considerable bearing on law and order situation confronted by the police. During Grama Panchayat elections, peace prevailed throughout the State, but the post Grama Panchayat election period witnessed political fighting among different political parties causing serious law and order problems in the State resulting in police firing.

General Elections for the Karnataka Legislative Assembly were held in two phases on 26-11-94 and 1-12-1994 respectively. Elections were held peacefully throughout the State barring a few stray incidents of violence reported from some parts of the State. For the conduct of smooth and fair Assembly elections, 220 companies of Central Para-Military Forces, 40 Companies of K.S.R.P. and around 30,000 State Civil and Armed Police were deployed.

The election process was completed on 13-12-1994 after the declaration of the results for which counting was held on 9-12-1994. The declaration of results and the processions and felicitation functions to the victorious candidates were also held peacefully. The new Government came into the existence from 16-12-1994. When compared to the previous years, the current year elections process were held more peacefully in the entire State.

However, the post-election scene witnessed some trouble in Gokak on 14-12-1994., where there was a clash between political party workers resulting in the death of 2 persons and injuries to many, The police had to resort to firing to disburse the unruly mob.

There were a few minor incidents in Chintamani, Mulbagalu and Mandya, but the situation was peaceful otherwise throughout the State.

Students and Teachers

Colleges and Universities continued to remain peaceful except sporadic activities of a few students organisations.

Ryoths

A section of Ryoths under the leadership of KRRS had resorted to violence in Bellary District by attacking a godown of Cargil Seeds Limited, a multi-national company protesting against the Dunkel proposal. Before this incident, some miscreants resorted to an attack on the regional office of Cargil Seeds India Limited. However, the situation was not allowed to snow-ball.
