 Subject: Funding issues

Dear Patricia, Mike and Dave,

Thanks for the spreadsheet about GHW funding. Just a few more clarifications will help to ensure that all our fundraising efforts are complementary and well coordinated with no duplication and inadvertent competition.

- i. I gather you have received 84000$ and are expecting around 30000$ if all the proposals shown in the column 2005 are received. Incidentally exchange 12000$ is shown twice. Are they two proposals?
- ii. How long can you function in GHW secretariat/GHW process with this?
- iii. In many agencies you have mentioned "does not fall into their programme areas". Can you ask the person who contacted them whether there would be interest in these organizations to support PHA 2 (Perhaps a workshop or travel grants) or other PHM activity / event. In which case we (Maria, Andy and I) need to have contact details about whom to approach for that follow up.
- iv. In the original project proposal drawn up by GEGA / Medact/PHM, we (PHM) were to make a contribution (through fundraising). Is there still an expectation. If so how much in the current context?
- v. We are (PHM) in a rather precarious condition but some grant approvals are coming through. Do you have enough to give us a 5000$ loan till Feb. 2003 if it is urgent or is required. We may not be able to transfer money but we may before the end of the project support some travel or advocacy costs etc - perhaps!!
- vi. What are your plans for IHF WSF? An update is being sent out by us today. Is GHW planning to use the opportunity for a discussion on the final chapter etc which we had suggested in one of the teleconferences?
- vii. We have a grant from Actionaid Bangkok specifically earmarked for strengthening Asian PHM participation in WSF. We may support Delen, Cheekhoon, Qasem, Anit etc., to attend IHF/WSF with that grant and that would greatly help any GHW process there. Prem and Unni are also attending
- viii. For the time being Patricia's travel for PHA 2 IOC meeting will have to be borne by GHW as contribution to the process. Perhaps when our PHA 2 / PHM grants come through later in the year, we could do a reimbursement transfer if that is found to be necessary

At present the only crossovers are Christian Aid and IDRC, MDM and MSF! What have you asked them for and how much?

Sorry about all these questions but I am just working on consolidation of 2005 budget for PHM and these clarifications would be helpful.

Best wishes,
 Ravi Narayan

Regarding:

iii) As Mike said - Not till after I am back from Australia on Jan 9.

Regarding Christian Aid, MDM and MSF! The huge list I sent you are options and we have not approached any of them where it is not indicated otherwise. We will be sure to keep in mind who PHM is approaching. Would be good to have a spreadsheet of where you are going so we can keep track of this.

Regarding the IHF in Porto Alegre. We thought to ask Amit to lead the plenary session on the GHW for us. Armando also mentioned a two hour workshop also- maybe Amit and others can lead a discussion on recommendations for some of the chapters and on the broader recommendations as Dave mentioned. Armando contacted me yesterday about this and I have not had a chance to reply.

Hi Ravi

It's remiss of me I know but I'm afraid I didn't open the original spreadsheet that Pat sent me and I now can't find it in my messages. So working without my glasses I'll tell you where we are at:

- i. In total for the Global Health Watch we have so far received $130,000 which is all being spent on the production process. We have a new budget for the advocacy proposal which amounts to a similar figure. There are NO absolute commitments of money to this advocacy proposal. Exchange has given us some funding already ($18,000), and we have asked them for some more funding for the advocacy component (around $20,000 as I recall).
- ii. Officially we have guaranteed secretarial resources ONLY until the end of February. We are fundraising for a functioning secretariat which would include Pat until December, and me on a consultancy basis to the end of July.
- iii. Pat may be able to do this but not until she is back from Oz in the second week of January.
- iv. No - we are not expecting anything - we know you are in a precarious position. However, I think it was agreed in Mexico that for example the Ecuadoreans would approach IDRC independently for funds to launch the Watch in Cuenca. Can't think of any more synergies at the moment, but maybe you are putting something in your proposal.
- v. From Medact's perspective the loan is out I'm afraid. Of the $130,000 mentioned above 90% will have been spent by end of February - and we don't have ANY ABSOLUTE guarantees of more money, although we are hopeful. And Medact's reserves are so limited (just over $20,000) that it is simply too big a risk for us to carry to make a loan. Really sorry about this.
- vi. No - mostly the recommendations will have to be discussed electronically. But given:
- vii. Maybe we should ask for some discussions in Porto Alegre too. Dave- your comments on this please.
- viii. OK we will bear this. Re-imburement in the future would be nice though!
- ix. We already have a grant from IDRC and we are going to ask them for some more money for advocacy. We were leaving Christian Aid to you - and we have not approached MDM or MSF. Sounds like the list Pat sent was an old 'options' list, mostly discarded now, but maybe she can clarify.

Sorry not to be of more help at the moment.
 Mike

Ravi and Mike

All I would add is that there is a GEGA proposal that includes a section for GHW that is with SIDA. But so far we have only had silence from them.

In terms of the recommendations, the truth is that we are way behind schedule on most things. There is a draft set of recommendations related to the political determinants of health - this will cover the reform of the WB/IMF/WTO; debt cancellation; aid; corporate tax; trade reforms etc. This could be circulated and discussed in Porto Alegre - however, I think we would want to be careful not to have this circulated too widely that it becomes publicly accessible.

There will also be a number of individual chapters which will incorporate some recommendations - and these could be discussed as well. I would suggest focussing on the water, food / agriculture and the war / militarism chapters. This should probably be sufficient??

In terms of the health care sector chapters, need more time on this. Have a meeting with David Sanders in January on this - we are trying to raise money to bring out either you, abhay or ravi to be part of this meeting.

Once we get everything to printers late feb / early march, we will be able to also start thinking about fundraising for the next version of the Watch - if we manage to get good publicity with the launch etc. then we should be ready with a proposal to hit donors in July.

Ravi - it would also help if you could put out a call to all in PHM to consider volunteering to organise local launches of the GHW in July. We need to have at least one launch in the middle east, north america and far east.

Cheers and all the best

Dave

Dear Pat,

Thanks for the clarification about authorship.

1. Here you decided how we will evolve the introductory piece by the three organizations (or have I missed a mail?).
2. Reading cartoonists, we have three contacts who have been doing it mostly for free but perhaps if there is a lot to be done we could contact them and suggest a rate as well. What do you have in mind?
3. Before we contact them go to CHC website www.sochara.org and see our cartoon / picture gallery. Do you all like the style? I have been using them in all my presentations including the recent plenary input in the Mexico summit. The Cartoonists are:
 - (i) Dr. Shirdi Prasad Tekur is a Paediatrician and was also one of the coordinators of CHC in 1993 - 1996. He goes under the pen - name of respectee (see margin of cartoon).
 - (ii) Mr. Maginal Pragasam is a trained media / social communicator also worked with CHC for years as an associate. His cartoons are marked magi (on the margin of the cartoon).
 - (iii) Balaji Sarpathi of Tamilnadu who published the 5 little books of PHM India and republished them for HIE - WSE 2004 as People's Health Resource Book; uses a local cartoonist. See the book section for the cartoons. They are also in the publication section of CHC Website!!

Tell us if you like any of these styles / approaches and we can follow up with one or more of them.

Dear Ravi

Thanks for your suggestions on the author of the GHW.

We received a few comments and in the end I think we have agreed to keep it at GHW as author because as our editor advised the "GHW, PHM, Medact, GEGA" version is 'unmemorable and unmanageable, and harder to market which is important if we want to create brand recognition for future reports'.

We will have a introduction by PHM, Medact and GEGA. I thought it would be good to use a few pictures of the PHA1 in the book too. What other ways can we feature PHM prominently?

Also, I am wondering if you know of any illustrators (cartoonists) that could do some work for us on a not so expensive rate?

Warm Regards from a still chilly London
Pat

Hi Pat,

You might want to include the International Journal of Health Services--Vicente Navarro's journal. The International Journal for Equity in Health has a small circulation, but might get good reaction. Also, the Brazilian Journal of Medical Education would probably be sympathetic to the cause. If you're interested in reaching social justice journals, the list expands...such as Mother Jones, Z Magazine, etc. Let me know if you'd like more leads.

TURNING TO ADVOCACY

We are nearing the end of the first stage of our Global Health Watch journey - the publication will go to press at the beginning of March. As it does, we want to alert you to the next stage of our work - ADVOCACY.

In many respects this is the key component of the Watch. This is how the publication will become noticed; this is also how we can expand and glue together the individuals and movements who have contributed with those who did not.

The last chapter will point at the areas that need to be looked at and prioritise some recommendations. We will spend more time on honing our key messages in the accompanying summary document that will be produced by mid-May. The main book will link to this summary document.

We want to encourage a broad participation in the production of the summary document - in the end we want this document to contain some strong statements that as many health and health-related actors can campaign around as possible; as well as containing key advocacy messages we want to project to the world at the time of PHA 2

A draft will be available by the end of March, and then we will give a month for consultation about the key messages with a wide range of interested actors.

Yours sincerely,
GHW Secretariat

Under-nutrition seems to be inexplicable in a world where the food market ascends to the 11% of the global trade and food prices have decline over the last years. Nevertheless it is one of the most important causes of illness and death globally as well as a key factor in poverty reproduction.

This chapter looks at the underlying causes of under and over nourishment both in developing and developed countries as directly related to the globalisation and liberalisation processes that have been taken place in the last decades. By implementing global marketing strategies and liberal programmes such as NAFTA, small local producers have been displaced from the market leaving the food system under the control of few global corporations based in developed countries. Thus generating poverty and inequalities as well as a decline in agricultural and rural investment in developing countries, not mentioning the threat posed by the growing market of genetically modified seeds.

Another dimension of the problem closely intertwined with the latter, is the globalisation of diets around the globe. This process has been encouraged to a great extend by international organisms such as the World Bank (which offers loans in order to develop certain type of food industry) as well as the entry of large food multinationals and retailers. The consequences are manifold, there is a cultural impact in terms of the progressive shift from diverse traditional local food towards a westernised homogeneous diet and on the other hand problems of over-nutrition and obesity are becoming new public health burdens. These are difficult to overcome not only because of the complexity of the problem itself but because of the pressure exerted from big food companies.

Towards the end of the chapter various strategies to tackle the problem are proposed, such as the development of international standards and national legislation in order to protect and promote national food security. Finally there is a call civil society to take a more active role in restoring food to the status of a human and cultural right.

GHW AT THE WORLD SOCIAL FORUM

The fifth edition of the World Social Forum was held between 26 and 31 last month. This was the biggest ever edition of the Forum and congregated more than 150,000 participants in the Brazilian City of Porto Alegre. The enormous gathering of groups and movements from all corners of the world was an inspiring opportunity to debate, share experiences and network.

One of the GHW Secretariat members, Claudia Lema, attended the WSF last week. She facilitated a workshop organised by IFRHHO (International Federation of Health and Human Rights Organisations) and chaired by the UN Special Rapporteur for the Right to Health discussing strategies to use Millennium Development Goals as tools for the achievement of the right to health. She also had meetings to discuss the Global Health Watch initiative with the representatives from ALAMES (Latin American Association of Social Medicine), Action Aid and the European Network for the Right to Health, as well as the members of the various chapters of the Peoples Health Movement.

Greetings from PHM Secretariat (Global):

Please write to Halfdan Mahler (halfdan.mahler@bluewin.ch) for a short message to GHW. I am sure he will oblige. He uses great quotable quotes. If he does not, I could send you a couple of them - he writes short messages to me regularly. Yesterday, I replied to him and suggested the idea, but a request from GHW team would be good. I am just reviewing the foreword. Will send it to you this afternoon.

Dear Ravi and Mike,

We haven't managed to get a luminary to write a foreword, and perhaps that's not such a bad thing. Maybe we should have a foreword that comes from the three organisations? I have done a quick draft of my idea of what should be in the foreword, but this is only a very quick first go. See what you think

A note from the People's Health Movement, GEGA and Medact

Dear Reader,

~~One and a half years ago~~ Two years ago, our three organisations came together in recognition of the fact that health workers and civil society groups needed an instrument to report, not so much on the state of global health, but on the state of action towards improving health and reducing the unconscionable disparity in health between different peoples.

In other words, it was time for a report to be written about the performance and actions of the very institutions that normally write 'global reports'! It was time to turn the tables by assessing and reporting on the performance of international health agencies such as the World Health Organisation and UNICEF, donor agencies, rich country governments, the World Bank, the IMF and WTO. It was time for an alternative world health report that would confront the political roots of poor health and inequity and show up the humanitarian rhetoric that promises so much but delivers so little. The result is a first edition of the Global Health Watch which unmask the gap between rhetoric and reality.

We also believed that ~~an alternative world health report~~ such a report should could offer a platform that to brings together the ~~various~~ civil society and non-governmental organisations and individuals working in health and health-related ~~different sector that nonetheless affect health sector~~sh: these include those working on gender discrimination, global trade and economics, the debt burden, environmental protection, access to water and food, arms trade, militarism, conflicts and disastersand ~~on the arms trade and militarism.~~ Global Health Watch 2005 has achieved this, and we hope to see improved collaboration between these different actors into the future.

~~Finally, we hope this report is only seen as a means to an end. It was designed to give support to many of the existing struggles for health by offering some analysis and by strengthening the global network of people's health movements. We hope that this report will inspire the production of local country or regional 'health watches' that will analyse the state of health and report of the performance of local institutions and actors.~~

~~But we also acknowledge many limitations to this report~~ We would like to acknowledge some limitations. We have endeavoured to involve people from as many countries as possible, but have not succeeded to ensure adequate input from many regions, including the ~~middle~~ Middle east ~~East~~ and ~~china~~ China. We have tried to cover most of the key issues relevant to health, but we have left out a discussion of many important topics. ~~The Tsunami that affected hundreds of thousands of people in so many countries reminded us also of the need for a critical assessment of the way humanitarian responses to natural and other disasters are managed and coordinated~~—but this is missing in the report. With a limited budget and a tiny secretariat, we have not always been able to give each chapter the careful attention it deserves we were simply not able to cover everything.

What we have however is an ~~early~~ proto-type of an instrument to 'watch' the way governments, international health agencies, macro-economic rules and structures, multinationals and banks act and perform in either improving or worsening health and health inequities at the global level. This ~~report~~ edition does not provide a complete 'report' on all the key events and institutions affecting health globally, but it provides a foundation for subsequent ~~alternative world health reports~~ Watches that we hope can make a real contribution to the struggle for better and more equitable health.

It is therefore time now to start preparing for the ~~second alternative world health report~~ Global Health Watch in 2007. What will be said about the key role and performance of the World Health Organisation in two years time? Will they ~~it~~ be able to improve their ~~its~~ performance whilst defending itself against the attacks being made upon multi-lateral institutions by the United States? Will the tobacco companies have found ways, ~~possibly with the covert support of some government agencies,~~ to effectively neuter and undermine the effective implementation of the Tobacco Convention? Will the World Bank still be undermining public sector health care systems whilst trumpeting their commitment to poverty alleviation? What will have been the real record of the humanitarian and development efforts in those areas affected by the tsunami after the massive outpouring of civil society generosity? ~~And what lessons will we draw from the state of health and the state of the health care system in Iraq in 2007?~~

Politicians, governments, donor and humanitarian agencies, banks, and multi-lateral institutions need to be held accountable. They need to be praised when they do well; they need to be told when they fail; and they need to be ~~caught out~~ exposed when they consciously contribute to the problem. Perhaps by 2007, we would also include an independent evaluation of the role of civil society on all these concerns.

We hope that this report marks the beginning of an on-going process to improve ~~the checks and balances required to move us faster towards eliminating preventable suffering~~ accountability in the international system and contributes to our wider goals of 'Health for All: as a right'.

Dear Mike, Dave & Patricia,

Greetings from PHM Secretariat!

I enclose the foreword having seen and endorsed most of Mike's suggestions and adding a few of my own (in blue colour), leaving both of you to make the final changes using your discretion – since you know the full contents better than I do. I only have three differences from Mike's suggestions : (1) I don't think we should drop the reference to Iraq and its health systems (2) even though I agree that we need not be apologetic about not having a report about Tsunami, I do feel a line at the end is not enough. One way to introduce it is to have a sort of STOP PRESS which is often added at the end of a publication to indicate an urgent and relevant addition to the main text. You could do so as the very last page and introduce the post-tsunami PHM statement that was recently released at the IHF-WSF 2005, which is attached (may need a little editing) This way we will indicate that we do respond to current realities even though we may not be able to introduce it into the publication because of the pressure of publishing schedule. This is just a suggestion. You can get a larger opinion if you wish. There's been a positive reaction from many and the statement does raise issues that would have been part of the chapter if we had been able to included. (3) I think in a spirit of accountability we should not only focus on politicians, governments, donors, humanitarian agencies, banks and multi-lateral institutions and leave out NGOs and civil society. We, including the PHM (in spite of all the enthusiastic efforts by many of us) are as responsible for the present situation as all the other groups. This additional line as a question would only add to our credibility and transparency and reduce inadvertently any 'moral high ground'.

I am really very pleased that you guys have managed to keep the apparent deadlines and the publication is reaching the final stages. My main concern has been the case studies since there have been so few that were circulated. Did we manage enough finally? Or are we left with heavy textual chapters? I know its rather late in the process to be asking this – but sometimes better late than never.

All the best for the next few weeks of hard work. I was even considering writing to the three of you to consider taking over the PHM website as part of the post GHW 1 process – because in many ways the PHM web site could be the continuation of the Watch process at all levels, balancing perspectives and praxis. Just leaving you with this thought – we could discuss it at PHA 2.

Best wishes,

Ravi

Dear Chee-Khoon,

Thanks for the attachment which I found useful.

Good to see some early planning around a launch. I think there is potential to consider launching in a couple of ways - one is to focus on content of GHW itself, and to try and make it as relevant to the region as possible. The second is to draw on the themes raised in the report and see how they apply to the Malaysian context.

In the UK we are planning to have two separate events - in July a launch of the GHW with a press conference that will emphasise the contribution and responsibilities of the UK to global health problems. Then later in the year, a UK health watch that will focus on health in the UK - based on similar principles of GHW.

Keep well

Dear Foong, David,

I just discovered some typos in the book review, pls use the corrected version (attached) for Star and MDIA Newsletter.

Re: the GHW launch, Ron McCoy has replied to say that MPPNW would be happy to co-sponsor it too.

I've just spoken to Evelyne Hong, to discuss 2 related matters. TWN/CAP as possible co-sponsors for the GHW launch, and the option (if it is not overly ambitious) of having a joint day-long event, viz GHW launch-cum-PHM Malaysia launch. The PHM (People's Health Movement) Malaysia launch (say in the afternoon) could involve testimonies from 3 or 4 Malaysian groups (Broga? Malayan Nurses Union on the private wing experience? MTUC on employment health benefits and recent patient care experiences? WDC on violence against women? Water privatisation (Charles Santiago's network?) leading up to the formalisation of PHM Malaysia. (In essence, CHI would become PHM Malaysia, taking on board additional groups which support the CHI-PHM platform).

Practical problem: I'll be on sabbatical in Japan from early April - end Sept 2005. could the launch be staggered till Sept 2005? or can the launch logistics be handled by a KL organising committee? Please send feedback. CK

Waiting to hear about the final decisions about the cartoons. Hope that got sorted out also with the Poer point. You have not still answered my queries about case studies in general. Also we may have a Tsunami dialogue which will be followed by a PHM steering group meeting in Chennai / Bangalore from 8th to 11th April 2005. Will one of you be able to join to ensure a good PHM / PHA 2 / GHW link up? Even though none of you are on the steering group, we could show one of you as a rapporteur of the Tsunami dialogue, which will precede the steering group meeting. Will you have travel support or do we need to provide it? Reply as soon as possible.

Thanks for the prompt reply. I think the idea of listing authors and institutions is fine. Perhaps each individual can decide / inform us whether they see their contribution as personal or also in their institutional capacity. Probably in the second list, we should include funding partners and all those units / depts, who gave other forms of support! I am sure it will make an impressive list.

Thanks Ravi for your suggestions.

We were always going to list the three coordinating orgs early in the book- we were thinking of a short intro by PHM, GEGA, Medact explaining the process of putting it together.

What does everyone think of author as GHW: PHM, GEGA, Medact?

Regarding the list of authors, reviewers, contributors- we are having a debate in the office as to whether this list should be names only or names with institution/organisation in brackets (with the preceding statement- The following people directly contributed to the conceptualisation and content of different parts of this report. Many individuals contributed their time voluntarily, and in their personal capacity. What do you think???

 Subject: [ghw] URGENT Global Health Watch- Acknowledgements

Dear Friends,

The first alternative world health report (Global Health Watch) is just about to be submitted for publication. We would like to acknowledge your contribution to the process. Please get back to me about this as soon as you can.

The production of this report has been pulled together on a small budget, with a tiny secretariat and on the back of significant voluntary time and commitment. Nevertheless it has incorporated contributions from many parts of the world and from many sectors within civil society. When the second global health watch is produced in 2007, we hope it will be an even stronger product with an even greater degree of civil society mobilisation during the process of producing the report.

For this report, we want to reflect as much as possible the full breadth of participation in the production of the report, in order to transmit a sense of solidarity and shared ownership, as well as strengthen links and collaboration between different organisations working across a range of sectors. We therefore plan to acknowledge all individuals and organisations who made a contribution to the Global Health Watch in two lists:

1. A list of individuals who have contributed to the report. This will be one long list at the end of the report (we will not be listing where in the report contributions have been made). This list will include organisational affiliation in brackets unless you indicate otherwise. We are suggesting that the following phrase be used:

"The following people contributed to the conceptualisation and content of different parts of this report. Many individuals contributed their time voluntarily, and in their personal capacity. They cannot be held individually accountable for all the views and recommendations in the report, but they have all contributed in various ways to the production of an alternative critique on global health in pursuit of equity and health for all."

2. A list of organisations who have contributed to the report. We are suggesting that the following phrase be used:

"The following organisations have contributed to the production in the report in terms of direct (financial) and indirect support"

From you we will need:

- a. your full name
- b. the full name of your institution/organisation and the country it is based in
- c. whether you are happy to have your institution/organisation included next to your name in brackets

We are trying to make the Tsunami dialogue a PHA 2 IOC meeting as well. So tentatively Maria, Arturo, Eduardo, Samuel, Prem, Unni and you (also representing GHW) are shown as potential participants. So just keep the dates free and we shall raise travel support, if possible. I have just written to Maria about his possibility otherwise, the next opportunity for PHA 2 IOC will be the WHA, 16th to 22nd May 2005. Our strategy is to get all PHA 2 IOC members invited as panelists for various events within and around WHA - thus travel costs will be borne by the inviting organization. I am in touch with Manoj and all the networks we usually deal with. This time the strategy is very focussed. Every PHM panelists in whichever session or whatever topic should use the opportunity to flay GHW and PHA 2. A separate communication on WHA follows next week. Use as many as the cartoons as you want. In most earlier events / opportunities, they have proved to be very effective communications with several members from the floor rushing forward seeking photocopies.

All the best in the weeks ahead to all three of you.

We won't be including case studies in the GHW report but we hope to include them in the Summary Campaigning document (that will be endorsed widely- more on this doc soon). Also we are still posting them on the website.

Tsunami dialogue is important but it seems unlikely any of us will be able to go because of funding and time. But please keep us posted about this.

We should start planning for the WHA events soon. As soon as the GHW manuscript is in (one more week) we can think about this more.

Quick response from me:

1. All three organisations legally hold copyright according to our agreement with the publishers. In addition, Medact is the overall contract holder for the publication, for practical reasons.
2. Author: I'd go with GHW. The question is practical. Where will the book go on the store bookshelf? If this is a repeated publication it should be under a consistent name. So file under "G".

While Arundhati Roy's foreword may add some 'glamour' to our report and we all like her way with words and we could arrange it as well, does a really 'people oriented report' need a glamorous writer to promote the publication? Can it not stand on its own? I respect her views and her contribution to the social movements, but somehow the principle of it worries me!!

Dear all,

We would like your opinion on a very short foreword, and a short note from the three sponsoring organisations.

The thinking is that the Foreword would act as a 'welcome' to the first alternative world health report, and that it may be written by a well known figure head. One suggestion that has been put forward is Arundhati Roy - she is a well-known name who is associated with the global social movement, articulate etc. Please can we have some reaction to this suggestion, and some alternative proposals. You may also want to suggest that we discard the idea of having a foreword written by a well-known figure.

The note from the three sponsoring organisations would make the following points:

- briefly describe the genesis of the report
- the process for its production
- to indicate the limitations of the report,
- we should also indicate that we hope that the first edition, represents a building block for subsequent reports that will represent a more representative view on health, and which will form a mechanism for holding the key institutions related to health to account.

Please give us your feedback

Yours in solidarity

Subject: [ghw] GHW update and call for your assistance with promotion

Dear All

Best wishes for the New Year from the GHW secretariat and our apologies for not being in contact for a while.

A quick update on our progress:

- the Watch chapters are currently being edited and with fingers crossed they will be at the publishers in March
- a Latin American Health Watch is being put together by our friends in Ecuador, apparently this report is well on the way
- a UK Watch is being put together by our friends from the Politics of Health Group here in the UK
- the GHW is being featured at the Porto Alegre World Health Forum and at the World Social Forum at a Health and Human Rights workshop (also being attended by Jeff Sachs and Paul Hunt)
- we are already thinking about the GHW2 and what sorts of things can be done which we have not been able to do this time around.

We are gearing up for a big year- we will need to get our voice heard amongst the other events this year (G8, Make Poverty History Campaign, Climate Movement Campaign, Trade Justice Campaign, MDG Review, SDOH Commission....)

Here are some things we would like from you to help us do this:

1. It would be most appreciated if you could review this list of journals (attached)- this is for journals who could feature a review of the report and assist in its dissemination. Please let me know if there are any crucial ones missing from the list (possibly relevant to your geographical area). I will need this back asap (ie. by the end of the week would be good).
2. Please think about the GHW launch and the possibility of having one in your locality. The launch is scheduled for July 20th in Cuenca, London, Geneva, South Africa (somewhere). We would also like to have launches in other places eg. Berne, New York or Washington, Los Angeles or San Francisco, Delhi, Brussels, The Hague, Berlin, Mexico City, Sydney/Melbourne, Jakarta, Ottawa, Cairo, Nairobi or Dar es-Salaam and wherever else is possible!! A summary of the report will be produced in Spanish and English but no other languages at this stage- unless of course we (or you) can source funds for translation. Please let me know if you can help with a launch in your city. It does not have to be on the 20th but can be sometime after (eg. a significant public health conference or event).
3. Please also think about a Health Watch for your country. This does not necessarily have to be ready for the time of our launch in July but you can think of it as an ongoing project. Let us know.

Best Regards from us in wintry London

Dear Patricia:

I probably misunderstood Arturo's and Dave's instructions in México, when they told me to go ahead with the report and launching preparations. I thought they told me that the International Comm. would certainly find the funds for the report and the launching. But if there is no certainty, I will immediately stop the work until this is clarified. We agreed in going ahead because that was the only way to comply with a tight schedule. But the report's financial coverage up to this moment is based on my word.

I will talk today with Arturo about this. I know that you have been working hard, and you are not to blame in any way, but I can not take a personal risk on delicate matter.

Warm regards

Jaime

Dear Jaime

I have to let you know that I will do my utmost to assist you with this matter.

I agree with you that we need to make a coordinated response to IDRC but I must remind you that very unfortunately we (the GHW secretariat) cannot take on the expenses of the Latin American report. But, I will help you however I can to get this money.

Dear Patricia

Greetings from PHM Secretariat (Global)!

This is dialectical!!

Since GHW is a joint project of PHM, Medact and GEGA, I think all three should definitely be listed as author's - not just GHW. I also feel that inside the report, there should be a clear statement of collectivity highlighting all the three lead organizations. Perhaps there could be a creative integration of these options. GHW: GEGA, MEDACT, PHM - so that it goes under G in the bookstore as Mike would like it, all three are indicated and if the partners change in other editions that can be reflected in the same way.

A final chapter or statement that lists out all the names of contributors, chapter writers, reviewers etc, to enhance the symbolic and collective solidarity of the whole process is also necessary to emphasize the 'alternaive' nature of the whole compilation as well. To complicate the process, I had a thought - should the report be linked in public memory as G = Global or P= People's Health Report?

Anyway, I shall support consensus finally!!

Best wishes

Dear All

We need to make a decision on:

1. who will hold copyright for the GHW?
2. who will be the author of the GHW?

Our editor's suggestion is that the GHW should be the author (this is so that for future editions we can ensure that the report will always be listed under the same author - in case the coordinating orgs change). Or should the PHM be the lead author with Medact and GEGA?

Thanks

Dear Srinath

Greetings from PHM Secretariat (Global)!

Firstly, I would like to congratulate you on being included in the Republic Day awards list. You deserve it for all that you have done for medicine / health.

Secondly, I would request you to review the Global Health Watch: Alternative World Health Report that PHM is releasing in Cuenca, Ecuador, on July 20th. A preview copy from the publishers will be available earlier and we would be glad, if someone like you reviewed it in the NMJI, perhaps for all the Medicine and Society section.

How is the Public Health Foundation / Network / Schools idea progressing? I met Prashant during a hurried trip, I made to Delhi for a discussion on HRD for health at the office of the Indian Commission on Macroeconomics and Health. The working group on HRD had invited me to the meeting on the chapter on HRD.

Keep in touch.

Dear Patricia

Greetings from PHM Secretariat (Global)!

1. Glad to hear that the cartoons are going to be used. Since both Shirdi Prasad Tekur and Magimai Pragasam were CHC Society members, when they did these cartoons and the content idea evolved mostly in dialogue with myself and some of the others. I suggest that the best way to credit them is to say something like:

"For the cartoons, we credit Magimai Pragasam and Shirdi Prasad Tekur of Community Health Cell, Bangalore - India (www.sochara.org)

These can be introduced in the author or organizational list or both - whatever is relevant.

2. Also since we do not have the credits shown in each cartoon on the website, except as a signature 'espeete' or 'magi', you can add 'CHC India' as a source in each one selected for publication in the margin as they do for photographs or illustrations in a book.
3. I am really impressed by the capacity you three (the GHW core team) have shown to keep the time schedule against all the odds. Perhaps you and Dave particularly (since Mike has other plans) should consider taking up some other focused responsibility for PHM beyond PHA 2, eg. The website which can then be reconstructed to be a sort of a permanent GHW - focusing on PHM news but also GHW Watch perspectives (with every current chapter being a separate section), updated regularly by volunteers. Unni got a hundred of us in India, to contribute to a collective publication entitled 'India Disaster Report 2002', which then continued as a website www.indiadisasters.org, where we now have the Post Tsunami Watch.

Andrew at the Exchange / Health links, is our PHM communications adviser and it may be worth talking to him about it.

4. Incidentally, further to our earlier communication, it seems that we may keep the focus of the April meeting primarily on PHM issues and make the WHA an opportunity for a focused PHA 2 IOC exercise. So the pressure to attend the Chennai / Bangalore dialogue is less. Will you agree to be a six member group to plan for WHA (Zafrullah, Manoj, Eugenio, Nance, Jose and yourself)?
